Title: History of Migration, Labour Relations and Social Policy, c. 1500-1914

Anne Winter (MA VUB 2001, MSc LSE 2002, PhD VUB 2007) is Professor of History and Director of the research team Historical Research into Urban Transformation Processes \(HOST\) at the VUB. Her research deals with the social and economic history of the Low Countries in the early modern period and long nineteenth century in an internationally comparative perspective, with a focus on the interactions between migration, social policy, urbanization and labour relations. She supervises BA, MA and PhD research on the history of migration, social policy, urban society, labour relations, crime and policing from the sixteenth to the long nineteenth centuries. She is the author of Migrants and Urban Change: Newcomers to Antwerp, 1760-1860 (Pickering & Chatto, 2009), has (co-)edited several volumes in the field, including Migration Policies and Materialities of Identification in European Cities: Papers and Gates, 1500-1930s (Routledge, 2018), Migration, Settlement and Belonging in Europe, 1500–1930s: Comparative Perspectives (Berghahn, 2013) and Gated Communities? Regulating Migration in Early Modern Cities (Ashgate, 2012), and (co-)authored various chapters and journal articles, including in Past & Present, Economic History Review, Continuity and Change, International Review of Social History and Explorations in Economic History.

Researchers interested in an advanced project on the history of migration, social policy, labour relations and/or urban policing are welcome to discuss ideas in the context of a Marie Skłodowska-Curie Individual Fellowship submission. While her particular expertise lies within the history of North-Western Europe, she is particularly interested in research projects that aim to address long-term evolutions and/or explore diachronic or spatial comparisons and entanglements.
